A Catalog of Distance Education Programs offered by SARA-Participating Institutions

NC-SARA is collaborating with AcademyOne to develop a searchable national catalog of distance education programs offered by SARA-participating institutions. The purpose of this searchable catalog will be to allow SARA-participating institutions to showcase their distance education degree and certificate programs to potential students and others.

FEATURES OF THE SARA SOURCE

- Searchable catalog of programs from participating SARA institutions that will be made publicly available to prospective learners.
 - Searchable by: institution, state, program, or keyword.
 - Users will have the ability to narrow search results by instructional language, subject area, program level, state, and if the program is offered in an accelerated time period.
- Learners will be able to email the institution to get more information; share results via printing and/or email; and be able to select items for comparison.
- There is no fee for SARA institutions to participate in this voluntary opportunity to showcase educational offerings.

TO PARTICIPATE

To share programs in the SARA Source:

- Institutions can easily upload a data file containing program information into the SARA Source.
- Institutions will verify/update programs annually to ensure the SARA Source is sharing the most current information.
- Institutions will host an institution webpage for students leaving the SARA Source to learn more about the institution's distance educational offerings.
- NC-SARA staff will review and approve program information prior to visibility in the catalog. Staff will validate information, such as:
 - Tuition and fees
 - Program information such as course requirements, pre-requisites, accelerated options, etc.
